

Hi there team! Nice to meet you, I'm Siarhei :)

I hope at least half of the coffee dose has already done its job! I would like to submit my application because it seems like you've got the fire, and I'm ready to add even more fuel! And if there's too much fire, I can also be a firefighter. Let's collaboratively create something amazing and make our partnership not only productive but also beneficial for the client or conducive to business development!

Recently, I had the chance to collaborate with a skilled UX/UI designer and an enthusiastic client on a heartwarming kindergarten project. This hands-on experience with HTML, CSS, JavaScript, React, jQuery, and PHP was a real adventure, especially as I got to bring the project to life with interactive features, including a nifty feedback form.

This journey and over a decade of experience in the transportation logistics industry have honed my communication skills, allowing me to realize the importance of user-centric solutions. I learned to manage time and tasks effectively, pay close attention to detail, and have the resilience and composure needed to work effectively under pressure. I can't wait to bring that energy and creativity, bringing to life my passion for creating engaging, user-friendly websites and apps.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to discussing how my experience and skills can make a significant difference in moving your's exciting projects forward.

Kind regards,

Siarhei Balabanovich
